Luxury Adelaide Hills

Mount Lofty House

175 Years in the making we are an iconic designer 5 STAR boutique hotel in the Adelaide Hills famous for our luxury escapes, three hat fine dining restaurant, indulgent day spa experiences, conference retreats and breathtakingly beautiful weddings. Mount Lofty House was built in 1852 by prominent statesman Arthur Hardy as his summer house. Arthur Hardy is reminiscent of a South Australian Jay Gatsby; indeed his wife Martha described their lifestyle as 'a kind of feudal splendor'. Their beautiful manor soon became the state's premier address for lavish and infamous parties for Adelaide's elite of the day. From such lofty beginnings the manor was passed through a number of South Australian families, including a period as commune in the 1970s. In the disastrous 1983 fires of Ash Wednesday Mount Lofty House was burnt to the ground before rising from the ashes like a phoenix to truly become one of South Australia's great icons.

Sequoia

See the South Australia you never knew existed! Forget Bordeaux – South Australia has its own world-class food and wine scene for you to sample (and it's a lot closer to home). Base yourself at the 14-suite, adults-only luxury lodge ensconced in nature and sitting atop of Adelaide's Mount Lofty, affectionately known as Koala Mountain. Sequoia Lodge's 30 acre nature setting blends into the Adelaide Hills Botanic Gardens on one side of the peak and thousands of acres of national park on the other, all only 20 minutes from the Adelaide CBD. Every suite brings the outside in with local materials in earthy tones, uninterrupted views over the valley, and wallabies roaming outside your balcony. Sequoia Lodge only accommodates guests over 18 years of age.
